RESULTS is a movement of passionate, committed everyday people. Together we use our voices to influence political decisions that will bring an end to poverty. Poverty cannot end as long as oppression exists. We commit to opposing all forms of oppression, including racism, classism, colonialism, white saviorism, sexism, homophobia, transphobia, ableism, xenophobia, and religious discrimination.

At RESULTS we pledge to create space for all voices, including those of us who are currently experiencing poverty. We will address oppressive behavior in our interactions, families, communities, work, and world. Our strength is rooted in our diversity of experiences, not in our assumptions.

With unearned privilege comes the responsibility to act so the burden to educate and change doesn’t fall solely on those experiencing oppression. When we miss the mark on our values, we will acknowledge our mistake, seek forgiveness, learn, and work together as a community to pursue equity.

There are no saviors — only partners, advocates, and allies. We agree to help make the RESULTS movement a respectful, inclusive space.
Welcome from Joanne Carter
Executive Director, RESULTS

We want to see you in DC this summer!

July 13-16 in Washington DC

RESULTS is about personal growth. Like many of you, I came to RESULTS because I wanted the skills to make a difference. I wanted to understand how I could better translate research into policy. I was frustrated that I was treating individuals with psychotherapy for issues that stem from a community-level problem that could be prevented entirely – poverty. Before RESULTS, I had never written a letter to the editor let alone sat down with one of my elected officials or bird-dogged at campaign events. RESULTS helped me to understand that Congress works for us, the people. I’ll never forget the time one of my legislators’ chief of staff explained that our Congressman hadn’t signed onto tax credits for low-income working families because – and I quote – “the Congressman cares about the issue, but his eyes glaze over whenever we discuss tax policy” – so I wrote a gentle letter to the editor publicly asking for his support. And to my surprise, I received a call from the Congressman and his chief of staff the very next day, stating that he would co-sponsor the legislation. RESULTS gave me the tools I needed to raise my voice.
RESULTS is about community. I don’t know about you, but these past few years have taken a significant toll on me, and I’m not even directly impacted by most of the harmful policy proposals and hateful rhetoric swirling around our country. RESULTS volunteers have been a godsend throughout this time, providing inspiration and support. It’s like Aesop’s fable – any stick can be easily bent and broken on their own, but as a bundle, they are strong. As RESULTS volunteers we are much stronger than we are on our own. It has always been local RESULTS volunteers who have welcomed me when I moved to new communities. It’s RESULTS volunteers around the country who inspire me, whether it’s on these monthly webinars, weekly group leader calls, or the international conference in DC. RESULTS volunteers – diverse in our ages, careers, cultures, incomes, genders, education, ethnicities, locations – are chosen family united in our purpose. This unity through diversity is our strength.
RESULTS is about impact. Our organization is aptly named because we produce results. Since its founding, RESULTS volunteers have produced more than 14,000 pieces of media, had more than 160,000 conversations with congressional staff, and held more than 5,500 meetings with Members of Congress. By focusing on policies that are research-based, we are confident that they’ll have their intended impact. And by honing in on policies that have some political will behind them, we target our efforts effectively. Since 1980, more than 1 billion people around the world have moved out of extreme poverty, and more than half of people in the U.S. move above the poverty line annually due to our social safety net programs.

And yet, we still have much to do. The racial wealth gap persists and shows no signs on closing. There are currently only 37 affordable homes for every 100 extremely low-income households. And of course, this poverty continues to harm our people’s physical and mental health, continuing to be a primary reason why people come into my therapy office. Let’s keep up the work – creating the public and political will to end poverty.

Since 1960, renter's incomes have gone up by 5% while rental cost has gone up by 61%.

72.5% of extremely low-income renters are severely cost burdened, meaning they spend more than half their income on housing.

Housing assistance programs lifted 2.9 million people above the federal poverty line in 2017.

But only one in four who need assistance receive it.

We must address this housing crisis -- and we can begin to do so by shifting tax resources to support a “Renters Tax Credit” for low- and moderate-income renters. Several policymakers have introduced legislation that does this (H.R. 2169 and S. 1106, H.R. 7050 and S. 3342 in the last Congress).

Guest Speaker: Dr. Hahrie Han

- Anton Vonk Professor of Political Science and Environmental Politics at UC-Santa Barbara
- Beginning in July 2019, will become inaugural Director of the SNF Agora Institute and Professor of Political Science at Johns Hopkins University
- She specializes in the study of civic and political participation, collective action, organizing, and social change
- She has published three books, including How Organizations Develop Activists: Civic Associations and Leadership in the 21st Century
- Has been published in the American Political Science Review, American Sociological Review, American Journal of Sociology, and other outlets.
- Originally from Houston, TX, she received her B.A. in American History and Literature from Harvard and Ph.D. in American Politics from Stanford
Brief Notes from Guest Speaker Session

Please listen to the webinar recording for Dr. Han’s complete remarks

- People were active but burnt out
- Most effective organizations organize (depth) and mobilize (breadth)
- Relationship: people get transformed in relationship with others
  - To get to transformation, organize requests and design a campaign that puts people in community with each other
- Agency: do you feel like you can accomplish your goals?
  - Competence + autonomy; shouldn’t spoon feed actions
- Purpose: people want to feel they are part of something bigger
  - We are scared to ask for too much (costly); instead focus on making it worthwhile
Brief Notes from Guest Speaker Session

Please listen to the webinar recording for Dr. Han’s complete remarks

- For organizations to change, need a sense of urgency (because people are impacted)
- Don’t look at organizing in terms of short- vs long-term, organize based on deep vs shallow
  - Success = deep and fast change
- Modern movements: recognize identity, people communicate differently, context (polarization) different, so leaders must think about turning engagement into political
- Strategy: how turn what we have into what we want
  - Shared purpose via relationship and accountability
  - Delegate tasks vs outcomes – chunk the work to delegate outcomes in order to give agency
June Action – Organize your Community to Write Hand-written Letters

Generate letters on housing

• Letters are an old school tactic that still works
• Great way to educate them about the housing crisis and how to help families with the renters credit
• Get lots of letters from people you know that you can hand-deliver to your members of Congress

Remember the keys to success from Dr. Han’s research:
1. Relationships – we want to be connected to others
2. Agency – we want to be heard
3. Purpose – we want to know our work matters
June Action – Organize your Community to Write Hand-written Letters

ORGANIZE letter-writing this month:

1. At your June RESULTS meeting, set goals on how many written letters each person will bring to your July meeting (Not meeting in July? Track your progress in a shared document online)

2. Brainstorm ideas of with whom and where you can ask people to write letters with you: with friends over coffee, at book club, in your faith community. We’re around other people all the time; just go to them and ask. Keep a list of the people who say yes.

3. Set a time for when and how you will pick up the letters (deadlines are good motivators).

4. A week before the deadline, contact each person to offer encouragement and check in on their progress (“How’s it going? Need help with anything”?).

5. Pick up the letters, deliver them in meetings, and let your letter writers know what happened.

Prepare for the 2019 RESULTS International Conference

- Visit the Conference Resources page for materials, links, etc. (more is being added each week so check back frequently)

- Look for an e-mail from Campaigns Assistance Dorothy Manza on how to join your state’s Lobby Prep Call. Follow the instructions ASAP.

- Read our new racial wealth inequality background briefs found on the Conference Resources page. Please read BEFORE your lobby prep call, if possible (definitely before coming to DC). More briefs are coming soon.

- Nominate a Journalist for the Cameron Duncan Award for outstanding work on issues related to poverty by a journalist or editor. Nominations are due this Friday, June 7.

- Bob Dickerson of Seattle was an inspiring RESULTS grassroots volunteer leader. To honor his legacy, nominate a fellow advocate for the Bob Dickerson Grassroots Leadership Award (nominations due Friday, June 22).
