Protect U.S. Nutrition Assistance: Supplement Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP)

Engage: Congress is overdue in passing a new Farm Bill. This law governs farming and food policies in the United States. Its largest component is the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), which provides direct assistance program to those experiencing food insecurity.

Problem: Unfortunately, SNAP continues to be under attack by lawmakers who want harmful cuts to reduce access and limit choice.

Inform: SNAP serves nearly 40 million Americans. These include working families with children, elderly, and disabled people. Notably, households in rural counties participate in SNAP more often than urban and suburban areas. Congress must protect SNAP from any threats in a new Farm Bill. Instead, they must work to make it stronger by expanding access and increasing benefits for vulnerable populations. This will help [State Date Here] residents in [your home state] meet their basic needs.

Call to Action: Will you speak to House Agriculture Committee Chair Thompson and Ranking Member Scott/Senate Agriculture Committee Chair Stabenow and Ranking member Boozman and urge them to protect SNAP in the new Farm Bill? Are you also willing to review a few proposals that will expand access to more vulnerable populations?
