Across the country, there are 48 million Americans, including 15 million children and over 5 million seniors who do not consistently have the fuel they need to tackle the day, succeed in school, maintain their health, and care for their family members. Hunger exists in every state and every county in America. And the impacts of hunger are long-lasting. Living with food insecurity harms an individual's health and ability to take care of themselves and their children. It stunts a child's ability to grow and learn and limits their opportunity to achieve their full potential. It weakens communities.

September is Hunger Action Month™, a time when charities, volunteers, businesses and faith leaders join together to educate, advocate, and take action in the fight to end hunger.

This Hunger Action Month™, please join more than forty national nonprofits and businesses committed to ending hunger, in conjunction with the House Hunger Caucus, for an opportunity to learn more about what hunger looks like in your home state and across our nation. For one day only, the Hunger in America Exhibition will bring together the voices and faces of those impacted by hunger, with opportunities to see photos and local-level data from all 50 states. The Exhibition will illuminate how hunger impacts our country and how communities, charities, business leaders, and dedicated individuals are working together to make a difference.
